James W. McCament (Moderator)

Dominic Mancini, Christina E. McDonald, Joan V. O'Hara, Sue Ramanathan, Mary Beth Schultz

1.5 CLE Credit

This panel will provide an overview of significant legislative and regulatory initiatives of DHS in 2016. Panel members will provide a summary of the status of key homeland security legislation and discuss current priorities in the current Congress to address our nation's homeland security. The panel will also discuss the transition plans and potential priorities for the next administration.

10:45 AM – 10:55 AM Break

10:55 AM – 12:25 PM Legal & Policy Considerations in Emergency Management

Breakout Session I
Panel A

Ernie B. Abbott (Moderator)

Joseph Gleason, Brian Kamoie, Bryan Koon (Invited), Adrian Sevier

1.5 CLE Credit

This panel will focus on the legal and regulatory issues generated by the growing number and cost of disasters. These issues include legislative and regulatory efforts to make disaster response and recovery more flexible and cost efficient. But federal, state and local governments must assure that our communities and infrastructure are more resilient to, and suffer less damage from, disaster events. The panel will describe the kinds of incentives and regulatory requirements that have been adopted, and are still needed, to reduce the impact on people, property, and the economy from disasters.

10:55 AM – 12:25 PM The SAFETY Act: Managing Critical Risks in an Uncertain World

Breakout Session I
Panel B

Bruce Davidson (Moderator)

Dana Pashkoff, Akmal Ali, Aimee Ghosh

Today's world is filled with risks, many of which are asymmetric, consequential and challenging. Yet your clients must identify, assess, prioritize and address them with realistic and cost-effective strategies. While terrorism risks are not always the highest probability risk, they can have a catastrophic outcome and severely impact your clients' financial health and reputation for years to come. This experienced panel will look at these challenges protecting the nation's critical infrastructure and your clients' interests, and discuss the expanding opportunities for mitigating the risk and impact of terrorist threats using the protections offered by the Support Anti-terrorism by Fostering Effective Technologies (SAFETY) Act. Recent developments in SAFETY Act protections for cyber security, commercial facilities, the energy sector, supply chain security, and information sharing will be highlighted. This session will be filled with ideas that you can put to use when assisting your clients confront these significant risks.

12:25 PM – 12:55 PM      Lunch Break (included with registration)

12:55 PM – 1:15 PM      Lunch Speaker TBD (NON-CLE)

1.5CLE Credit

Congressman Jim Turner (Moderator)

Jonathan Cantor, Alisa L. Chestler, Jennifer Daskal, Amy Jeffress

Where do we stand now on statutory and constitutional issues related to security, privacy, and the governmental and private sector use of technology in homeland security? Panel members will discuss the balance and provide an overview of cybersecurity and privacy legislation, threats and the use of technology for foreign and domestic security.

2:45 PM – 2:55 PM      Break

2:55 PM – 3:55 PM      The Supply Chain – The Weakest Link: Vulnerabilities and Solutions

1.0CLE Credit

Joshua (Josh) Kussman (Moderator)

Jeannette Chu, Alice Alexandra Kipel, Thomas S. Winkowski

Several major new pieces of trade and customs legislation were signed into law by President Obama in 2015 and 2016 including the Trade Promotion Authority (TPA), the Trade Preferences Extension Act (TPEA) and the Trade Facilitation and Trade Enforcement Act (TFTEA). Panelists will discuss how the U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) will enforce these laws including how the industry will seek to comply with them.

3:55 PM – 4:55 PM      Drones 2.0: A Discussion with FAA General Counsel Reggie Govan

1.0CLE Credit

Col. Dawn Zoldi, Reginald (Reggie) C. Govan

Col. Dawn Zoldi of the United States Air Force will conduct a fireside chat interview with Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) General Counsel, Reggie Govan. Topics to be discussed will include: an overview of the general aviation rules that apply to drones; the status of the Notice of Public Rule-Making on the Small Commercial UAS Rule; "how to" apply for commercial drone use approval in the interim (Section 333 approvals); the drone registration requirement; what national security considerations the FAA is focused on with respect to drones; and continuing challenges that exist for assimilating drones into the national airspace, among others.

5:00 PM – 7:00 PM      Networking & Cocktail Reception

7:30 AM – 8:30 AM Continental Breakfast & Registration

8:30 AM – 9:00 AM Opening Remarks

9:00 AM – 10:00 AM Homeland Security and the Private Sector – A General Counsel’s Perspective

Joe D. Whitley (Moderator)

Angeline (Angie) G. Chen, Sheila C. Cheston, Christopher (Chris) Graham

1.0 CLE Credit

This panel will explore the diverse responsibilities of general counsels in providing legal advice and leadership in protecting their organizations against threats to business continuity caused by terrorism, cyber threats and natural disasters. Also, the general counsels will discuss the interface between their organizations and the Department of Homeland Security, FBI and other federal and state organizations that are charged with protecting America against both domestic and international terrorism. Finally, panel members will assess the way ahead for their leadership and their boards of directors in the ever changing balancing act between corporate profitability and corporate security. Can these two needs successfully coexist?

10:00 AM – 10:15 AM Break

10:15 AM – 11:15 AM DHS General Counsel’s Office – 2016 Priorities & Update

Stevan E. Bunnell (Moderator)

Steven J. Andersen, Joseph Maher, John Havranek, David Palmer, Kiran Raj

1.0 CLE Credit

This panel will explore the mission of the OGC in 2016 to provide legal advice and counsel to the Secretary of Homeland Security and the over 200,000 employees of this department. Panelists will also discuss the latest technologies, emerging trends, and world events and how they affect homeland security. Where are we now in the discipline and practice of homeland security law, where are we going, and how do we get there?

11:15 AM – 11:30 AM Break

11:30 AM – 12:30 PM The Role of the Military in Homeland Defense
Breakout Session II
Panel A

Professor William Banks (Moderator)

John Gereski, Jeffrey Greene, Paul S. Rosenzweig, Karl F. Schneider

1.0 CLE Credit

When crisis requires American troops to deploy on American soil, the country depends on a rich and evolving body of law to establish clear lines of authority, safeguard civil liberties, and protect its democratic institutions and traditions. Since the 9/11 attacks, the governing law has changed considerably even as domestic threats – from terror attacks, extreme weather, and pandemics – mount. America’s military is uniquely able to save lives and restore order in situations that overwhelm civilian institutions. Yet the military has also been called in for more coercive duties at home – to quell riots and enforce federal laws in the face of state resistance. What are the likely domestic roles and missions of the U.S. military, and how will they be governed by law?

11:30 AM – 12:30 PM
Breakout Session II
Panel B

The U.S. Immigration Agenda 2016

Jeffrey Gorsky (Moderator)
Gary Merson, David Newman, Amy M. Nice

Immigration has become one of the most important and contentious issues in the 2016 Presidential election, almost guaranteeing that it will be a major political issue in the new Presidential administration. Accentuating the visibility of the issue, this summer the U.S. Supreme Court will issue a decision in U.S. v Texas, one of the most controversial and important cases of the session, on the legality of President Obama's immigration initiatives to grant relief from removal and work authorization to millions of undocumented immigrants. This panel of immigration experts will discuss the status of the President's agenda and the future of immigration reform both in the lame duck session and under the next President and Congress in the political year to come.

12:30 PM – 1:00 PM

Lunch Break (included with registration)

The Cybersecurity Information Sharing Act: An Overview and Update

Joshua Snavely (Moderator)
Leonard Bailey, Kiran Raj

The Cybersecurity Information Sharing Act is one of the most important pieces of federal cyber-related legislation enacted to date. The Act establishes authority for monitoring information systems and taking defensive measure to protect an information system, as well as a mechanism for cybersecurity information sharing among private-sector and federal government entities that provides safe harbors from liability. This panel of experts will provide an overview of the legislation including an update on its implementation and use. The panel will discuss the relevant guidelines and procedures required by the Act, as well as the various sharing mechanisms, information systems, and potential defensive measures made available by this landmark legislation.

1:00 PM – 2:00 PM

Latest Developments: Committee on Foreign Investments in the United States (CFIUS)

Malcolm Tuesley (Moderator)
Shawn Cooley, Nova Daly, Benjamin C. Richardson, Andrew Walke

1.0 CLE Credit

The Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States (CFIUS) reviews the national security implications of investments in U.S. businesses by foreign persons. This panel will discuss issues facing the Committee, including recent changes at the Defense Security Service, DHS's unique challenges in protecting privately-owned critical infrastructure from foreign investment risks, risk mitigation agreements and ongoing compliance issues, as well as the Committee's role in balancing the United States' policy of open investment with realities of evolving national security threats.

2:00 PM – 2:15 PM

Break

Thursday, August 25, 2016

2:15 PM – 3:15 PM

Homeland Security Critical Infrastructure Legal & Policy Issues

Robert Kolasky (Moderator)

Michael Kennedy, Timothy (Tim) Scott, David M. Wulf

1.0CLE Credit

Private companies reduce their security risks by complying with regulations, developing business continuity and emergency response plans. The chemical industry manufactures, stores, and transports a wide array of chemicals every day, but these products can be used in explosions or as chemical weapons. The panelists will discuss insider threat developments, chemical precursors strategies, and new international developments in global security.

3:15 PM – 3:30 PM

Break

3:30 PM – 4:30 PM

Cybersecurity and the Internet of Things (IoT)

Lucy L. Thomson (Moderator)

Frank J. Cilluffo, Christopher (Chris) D. Hale, Thomas M. McDermott, Jody Westby, Evan D. Wolf

1.0CLE Credit

Cyber threats and actors have become more common and bolder, while the lines among nation-state, terrorist, and criminal exploits have blurred. This panel will review the current threat matrix, possible readiness measures, the role that insurance might play in prevention and mitigation. This panel will also identify and define the evolving issues, problems and threats related to cybersecurity and the IOT. Panel members will analyze the relevant policies and standards and review security by design and software assurance.
